The next financial disaster is around the corner. Are you prepared?

With the nation's deficit expanding into the trillions of dollars, investors need to be prepared for the inevitable—and potentially devastating—fallout. Most economists agree that interest rates will rise, inflation will likely be higher, and virtually every aspect of our economy will be affected. Smart investors need to ask themselves: How should I invest today to survive the storm tomorrow?

The answer is in this brilliantly calculated, forward-thinking investment guide from Black-Rock strategist Russ Oesterich. He'll show you exactly what to expect in the new deficit economy—and how to handle your finances smartly, safely, and securely. . . . Stocks and Bonds: How to Invest in a Rising Rate Environment Real Estate: How the Deficit Will Affect the Market Commodities: The Benefits of Owning Real Assets Portfolio Management: What You Should Do Before It's Too Late More than a collection of fascinating financial predictions, The Ten Trillion Dollar Gamble offers solid advice on a wide range of investment options. You'll discover which markets are hot—and which are not—when the storm finally hits.

You'll find out if Treasury bonds are right for you and why commodities will be even more important in the future. You'll learn the best ways to invest in real estate, how to handle your growing debt, and how to manage higher interest rates for everything from mortgages to savings accounts.

Most important, you'll be able to apply these professional insights into building a stronger portfolio for you and your family.

Just because the government is gambling with our future doesn't mean you should. The Ten Trillion Dollar Gamble offers a winning game plan to help you protect and build your wealth for the long term.
