章节摘录

He understood thoroughly the conditions , strategy , tactics and terrain of the struggle , and he knew what could be expected of medical workers who were free men , fighting beside other free men for their homes and their future. The doctors , nurses and orderlies whom he trained learned to regard themselves not only as technical auxiliaries but as front-line soldiers with tasks as responsible and important as those of the fighting branches. These things Dr Bethune accomplished amid conditions such as no medical man without a broad understanding of his tasks could possibly have coped with. He accomplished them in mountain villages in the most primitive parts of China , almost without any previous knowledge of the language , of the people among whom he worked , and without any strength in his own tuberculosis-ravaged body apart from his burning conviction and iron will. His broad world understanding , the sources of power that he drew from it , were the things that give his work more universal meaning for our time than that of other medical heroes who laboured against similar heart-breaking conditions , such as Father Damien or Dr Grenfell in Labrador. What killed Dr Bethune ?

Dr Bethune fell in the fight against fascism and reaction to which he had given his passion , skill and strength. The region in which he worked was not only blockaded by the Japanese enemy. It was blockaded also by Chiang Kai-shek's reactionary government which had always been ready to compromise victory rather than fight a people's War. The men whom Bethune fought for were adjudged unworthy not only of arms and ammunition but even of medical supplies to heal their wounded. They died of infections because they could not receive modern antidotes. Bethune died of septicemia , the result of operating without rubber gloves and of having no sulfa drugs for treatment. The International Peace Hospitals which Dr Bethune founded now work under new conditions - China , at last , is free. But after Bethune died his appointed successor , Dr Kisch , who worked beside him in Spain , was prevented by Chiang Kai-shek's blockade from assuming his post. Dr Kotnis of the Indian Medical Units , who finally took up the directorship of one of Dr Bethune's hospitals and valiantly carried on his work , also died at his.
