章节摘录

Dolphins are interesting animals. Working with them is fun , because you never know what they will come up with to surprise you. Remember when your mom used to cut up your food ?

Circe , a show dolphin. won ' t eat fish unless someone cuts the fins ( 鱼鳍 ) off. Diana Reiss , a scientist who worked with Circe. knew that. But one day she forgot. Reiss was training Circe to " stay at station " in front of her. Every time the dolphin swam off , Reiss gave her a time-out by backing away from the side of the pool and standing at a distance. When Circe stayed , Reiss fed her a piece of fish. But then she gave her a piece with fins by mistake. Circe looked at Reiss , spat ( 吐 ) out the fish , and swam across the pool. She took an upright position in the water and simply " stood " there. Circe was communicating ( 交流 ) loud and clear. " I felt as if I had gotten the time-out !

" says Reiss. Another dolphin , Pete , enjoyed his meals of fish served up by his trainer. But a wild bird started to show up at every feeding to steal some of the dolphin ' s supper. Pete was definitely not happy about that. One day when Pete ' s trainer gave him frozen fish , Pete let them sink to the bottom of his pool. Between shows he dived down and pushed eight fish up to the surface , and managed to keep all of them afloat. For five minutes , the bird watched anxiously. Finally. the bird took the bait. ~ Ellen it did , Pete caught the bird ' s feet and pulled it underwater ! Then took care of that !
