章节摘录

I went to sleep that night feeling safe. I prayed I wouldn't have to leave. Morn did lots of nice things for me. She took me to church. She let me have pets and gave me horseback riding and piano lessons. Every day, she told me she loved me. But love wasn't enough to heal the hurt inside me. I kept waiting for her to change her mind. I thought, "If I act badly enough, she'll leave me like the others." So I tried to hurt her before she could hurt me. I picked fights over little things and threw tantrums when I didn't get my way. I slammed doors. If Mom tried to stop me, I'd hit her. But she never lost patience. She'd hug me and say she loved me anyway. When I got mad, she made me jump on a trampoline<sup>3</sup>. Because I was failing in school when I came to live with her, Mom was very strict about my homework. One day when I was watching TV, she came in and turned it off. "You can watch it after you finish your homework," she said. I blew up. I picked up my books and threw them across the room. "I hate you and I don't want to live here anymore!" I screamed. I waited for her to tell me to start packing. When she didn't, I asked, "Aren't you going to send me back?" "I don't like the way you're behaving," she said, "but I'll never send you back. We're a family, and families don't give up on each other."
