章节摘录

版权页：插图： The boy was downcast when he heard this. He left the pony in the smith's shop and went out to buy coal. He met a farmer coming to town and told him his trouble. The farmer said: "I have bushels of corn and hay and wheat, Something for you and your pony to eat; But I have no coal the iron to heat, That the blacksmith may shoe your pony's feet." The boy turned away very sad. Just then an old woman came down the road, driving a flock of geese. He told her all about his trouble and she laughed till her geese began to cackle. Then she said: "If you would know where the coal is found, You must go to the miner who works in the ground." He ran to the miner who had lumps of black coal ready. He took these in haste to the blacksmith who lit a great, red fire. Then the smith beat out a fine, new shoe, with a clang and a clang. He put it on the pony's foot with a tap and a rap, and away rode the boy—clippety, clippety, clap !

LESSON 91 MY LITTLE DOLL I ONCE had a sweet little doll, dears, The prettiest doll in the world; Her cheeks were so red and so white, dears, And her hair was so charmingly curled, But I lost my poor little doll, dears, As I played in the heath one day. And I cried for her more than a week, dears, But I never could find where she lay. I found my poor little doll, dears, As I played in the heath one day; Folks say she is terribly changed, dears, For her paint is all washed away. And her arm trodden off by the cows, dears, And her hair not the least bit curled: Yet for old sakes' sake she is still, dears, The prettiest doll in the world.
