章节摘录

I like jogging. Its cheap. You can do it almost anywhere. You dont have to have a special place or any special equipment. Of course, you have to have good running shoes and proper cloth-ing, especially if you go jogging in winter. But there arent any rackets or balls or other special things to worry about. Also you can do it alone and at any time. Sometimes its difficult to find a partner for tennis or a group to play volleyball. You shouldnt go jogging everyday. Three times a week or every other day is good. You need to do warm-up exercises and to start off slowly, only five to ten minutes at first. Then, if you only jog to keep in shape, a half hour is usually enough. Dont eat anything before or immedi- ately after you go jogging. And dont drink anything really cold when you finish. Its a simple sport. A lot of people say its boring. Sure, it can be... but thats why people jog with a Walk- man. I have a great tape, a 45-minute "high energy" music tape. So I can listen to music and keep in shape. Questions:

11. Which of the following is not an advantage of jogging ?
12. How often should one jog ?
13. What does the passage teach you ?

Questions 14 through 16 are based on the following passage. Today Id like to say something about taxis. I think its beneficial to all of newcomers. Most people are likely to travel by taxi when they arrive in America. Actually, taxis here come under the heading of luxury travel. In Chicago, for example, the meter reads almost $1.00 be- fore you even move. Furthermore, theyre sometimes not only hard to find at the busy hours of a day but also if the weather turns bad. Generally speaking, taxis are metered throughout the country, but there are some cities, for example, Washington, D.C., where they operate on a distant zone system. If you find yourself sharing a taxi with several strangers, you will often be expected to pay full price, unfair though that may seem. Nothing is uniform in the U. S. Furthermore, rules vary from one city to another. If you want to make a complaint about taxi service, note the drivers number and name. When you write to the company, be sure to keep a copy of your letter.
