章节摘录

Sarah was excited. She was going to be 13 in two weeks. Her mother said it was a big day for a teenager. She said that Sarah could have a tea party to celebrate. There were 20 students in Sarah's class, and her mother said she could invite all of them. So they bought beautiful cards and wrote down the guests' names, and the time, date and place of the party. Sarah's mother also wrote down their phone number, so that guests could reply. Then they posted the invitations. When people receive an invitation, it is polite to reply as soon as possible. You can either write a reply or make a telephone call. It is especially important when it is a wedding or anniversary invitation. Sarah received 19 replies. One boy did not reply. He is rude, said Sarah's mother. The party was held in Sarah's house. Her guests brought birthday presents for Sarah as well as flowers for her parents. It is polite to bring a gift to your host, even if it is a small one. It means you are thanking him or her for inviting you.
