章节摘录

Many years ago there was a kind old woman who lived in a small house in the forest. She was very poor and lived on nuts and berries. She often visited the nearby village. The villagers thought she was a wise old woman and asked her to tell them their fortune. I'll tell you what I can see, she always said, and told them a few simple truths about themselves. One of the men in the village was very frightened of the old woman. He believed she was a witch. He planned to do evil things and he thought she knew about them. Tell me my future, he said, hoping to find out how much she knew. I can tell you only that soon you will hurt someone you love, she said. The man did not believe this was all she knew. He decided to kill her. He bought a fine fruit cake from the village baker and put rat poison into it. Then he gave it to the old woman. Here is one of our bakers finest cakes for you, he said. Make sure you eat it all.
